Dear Enterprise Bot Team,

Enterprise Bot's clients — SIX Group, Generali, SWICA — trust you with their operations because your product proves itself daily. Brand and marketing design has to earn that same trust, project by project, before a line of copy is ever read. That's the work I want to do, and it's the work I've spent three years doing.

As Creative Lead at Paavani Properties, I owned brand execution end to end across 30+ real estate projects — identity systems, print, video, 3D walkthroughs — and built a Meta Ads creative system that generated 302 leads in 66 days at ₹82 per lead, lifting brand visibility 3x. I care about design that people respond to, not just design that looks finished.

I also build in React, Next.js, and Supabase, which means landing pages and web experiences don't have to stop at a handoff file — I can ship them. Paired with daily use of AI tools (ChatGPT, Gemini, Recraft) to move faster through ideation and production without cutting craft, it's close to the exact combination this role is asking for: full-mix design plus AI-native workflow plus an eye for systems that scale as a brand grows.

What draws me to Enterprise Bot specifically is the size and pace — a 70-person team with a flat structure means design touches product, sales, and marketing in the same week, not in a queue. That's the environment I do my best work in: end-to-end ownership, fast iteration, and enough scope to build systems rather than just execute against one.

I'd welcome the chance to talk through how I could contribute to the brand's next stage. My portfolio is at aryanswaroop.com.

Kind regards,

Aryan Swaroop
